INTRODUCTION

SSRS conducted the 2025 Greater Boston Jewish Community Study (Greater Boston Jewish Community Survey) on behalf of Combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP) and in collaboration with Rosov Consulting (RC) between December 5, 2024, and April 15, 2025. The study was designed to provide CJP with population estimates of its service area and actionable data regarding the Jewish community. For the Greater Boston Jewish Community Survey, SSRS collected data online, by mail and by telephone from 4,776 adults residing in Jewish households¹ in the CJP coverage area².

This report details the methodological components of the study, including: sample design, questionnaire design, programming, field operations, data processing, and weighting.

SAMPLE DESIGN

The study was designed to reach a representative sample of Jewish households in the coverage area with the goal of reaching target minimums of completes in specified geographic regions defined below.

Sample Stratification

Sample was generated from the U.S. Postal Service's Computerized Delivery Sequence (CDS) file, licensed by SSRS's sister company Marketing System Groups (MSG). This database contains over 135 million residential addresses nationally, covering nearly all households in the U.S., and about 1.74 million residential addresses in the survey coverage area. From the CDS, MSG generated a random Address-Based Sample (ABS) of households in the coverage area totaling 144,496 households. SSRS developed and applied disproportionate stratification that included both design strata and geographic (region) strata. The two stratification dimensions allowed an oversampling of design strata with a higher incidence of Jewish households and ensured enough Jewish households were reached within each of seven geographic regions.

The four main design strata for the Greater Boston Jewish Community Survey were defined as following:

- (1) Community Lists Sample (CLS): this involved identifying addresses in the coverage area that are included in contact lists for 89 Jewish organizations, provided the contact information included a home address. The CLS was sub-stratified by 12 mutually exclusive categories, namely:
 - Russian
 - LGBTQ
 - Israeli

¹ The term "Jewish household" refers to residential households in which at least one household member identifies as Jewish (see Appendix D for the operational definition of Jewish identification).

² The coverage area includes all or most of Suffolk, Norfolk, Essex, Middlesex, and Plymouth counties as well as a small portion of Bristol and Worcester counties. See Appendix A for a full list of zip codes sampled, and the regional stratification and county they each are located in.

- Parent/Youth
- Orthodox
- Young adult
- Interfaith
- North Shore
- Seniors
- Women
- Day School
- Unclassified

The lists³ were de-duplicated so that an address could appear only once in the combined CLS. This combined list was treated as a unique sampling stratum, and households matching the CLS in the ABS frame were oversampled to increase the likelihood of reaching a Jewish household. Substrata which were classified into a specific list type were oversampled to meet study goals. Sample was randomly generated from the CLS within the study's geographic regions.

- (2) Likely Jewish Household Sample (L2⁴): This stratum included addresses NOT on the CLS, that were designated as "likely Jewish" based on L2's surname and ethnicity flags. Within the Likely Jewish stratum, sampled addresses were randomly selected within geographic regions.

The two remaining main sampling strata were defined by the likelihood of Jewish households based on the percentage of addresses in the zip code that were represented on the CLS and/or L2 "likely Jewish" list. Specifically, these strata were defined using the following criteria:

- (3) High Jewish-incidence Non-Designated Sample (High Jewish Residual): Addresses within zip codes with greater than or equal to 10% of addresses appearing on either the CLS or L2 lists.
- (4) Medium Jewish-incidence Non-Designated Sample (Medium Jewish Residual): Addresses within zip codes with greater than or equal to 3% of addresses appearing on either the CLS or L2 lists, but fewer than 10%.

Zip codes with fewer than 3% of addresses appearing on either the CLS or L2 lists were excluded from the undesignated sample. The estimated number of Jewish households not covered in the sample frame as a result of this exclusion is estimated to be approximately 3.7%.

Table 1 below details the four main design strata used for this study, detailing the number of addresses and the expected Jewish incidence in each stratum when the sample was designed. These were based on ³ See Appendix B for details of the lists used and the sub-strata to which they were assigned.

⁴ L2 (<https://www.l2-data.com/>) is a source of government and commercial records of adults in the United States. Their files combine publicly available government records of registered voters with data aggregated from credit bureaus, telecom companies, and other government sources. The L2 identification of "likely Jewish" adults is based on proprietary models that combines surname and ethnicity data with other commercial data.

Regional Stratification

In addition to the design strata, the sample was stratified by seven geographic regions listed below, which were defined by zip codes. Within each region, sample was allocated across the four main design strata listed above. Table 2 details the housing unit population size of each region, the total amount of sample released for each area, and the final number of Jewish households completing the survey by design strata and regional strata.

⁵ These incidences were estimated prior to fielding Wave 1 sample release, then were adjusted prior to fielding Wave 2.

Email-Only Supplemental Stratum

An email-only supplemental stratum included sample from contact lists for 89 Jewish organizations, which were not sampled in the CLS. Sample did not need to include a home address for inclusion in the email-only stratum. This fifth stratum was reached by email only and was stratified to match the study's analytic goals. Responses from the email-only stratum were not used to inform population estimates but allowed for more in-depth analyses within geographic, demographic, and other sub-groups, by increasing overall sample size and statistical power.

DEVELOPMENT OF SCREENER, MAIN QUESTIONNAIRE, AND MAILING MATERIALS

The primary questionnaire design was constructed by RC and CJP, with assistance from SSRS. The questionnaire consisted of two sections – the screener questionnaire and the main questionnaire.

Screeners

The screener questionnaire⁶ was designed to: (1) establish for each responding household whether at least one adult residing in the household was Jewish; and (2) collect demographic information about the respondent and their household that would allow us to weight the screener data, in order to produce accurate Jewish household and population estimates. To meet these goals the screener included the following sections:

- (1) Household verification and makeup: Respondents were asked to confirm that the address where they regularly receive mail matches the address on the invitation letter (if respondent was answering online or by phone the address was displayed/read to them).⁷ Respondents were then asked about the total number of adults and total number of children in the households. Several other household-level characteristics such as homeownership and internet usage were asked at the end of the screener following the household rostering.
- (2) Household demographic roster: For each adult in the household (starting with themselves then by descending age order), respondents were asked to report household adult members' gender, age, educational attainment level, and ethnicity/race. Responses were collected in a screener file, in which each household adult was treated as a separate record in the file.
- (3) Household religion/Jewish identity roster: Following the demographic questions respondents were asked about each household adult's:
 - a. Religious identification. Respondents could choose among main religions in the coverage area, or enter something else. They could enter any number of religions with which the adult identified, or choose to say this adult was atheist, agnostic, something else, or otherwise did not identify religiously.
 - b. Other identification with religion: For each household adult that respondents said identifies as any non-Jewish religion, or as Jewish and another religion, respondents were asked whether this adult considered themselves otherwise Jewish, Muslim, Catholic, or Mormon (e.g., culturally, ethnically or because of family's background).
 - c. Religious tradition or parentage: For each household adult that respondents said identifies as any non-Jewish religion, or as Jewish and another religion, respondents were asked whether this adult was raised in the Jewish, Muslim, Catholic, or Mormon traditions or had a parent from any of those backgrounds.

Based on the responses to the religion/Jewish identity screener questions, households were classified as Jewish households for the purposes of receiving the main questionnaire if at least one adult in the household met one of the following criteria:

1. Religion is Jewish AND is religion is not also another non-Jewish religion.
2. Religion is agnostic, atheist, or nothing in particular AND religion is not also another non-Jewish religion AND considers self Jewish ethnically/culturally/by family background

⁷ Email-only sample was instead asked to enter the zip code where they currently live most of the time, to confirm that they live within the coverage area.

3. Religion is Jewish AND religion is also another non-Jewish religion AND considers self Jewish ethnically/culturally/by family background AND was raised Jewish or had a Jewish parent

Main Questionnaire

The main questionnaire consisted of up to 215 questions asked of respondents in Jewish Households. This included questions about Jewish identity, engagement, behaviors, and connections; demographic characteristics and social identities; children and Jewish education; Israel; antisemitism; health and human services; and finances.

SSRS programmed the questionnaire using Forsta web/CATI software that integrates data from online and telephone platforms. The survey utilized a responsive design that would alter the layout for mobile devices. SSRS team members along with representatives from RC/CJP reviewed all programs to confirm accuracy of skip patterns and the reasonable flow of the instrument.

Testers also scanned the programs with an eye toward respondent usability – to this end, the web survey was tested on a variety of devices and platforms, including smart phones, tablets, and laptop/desktop computers, as well as multiple web browsers, including Chrome, Safari, Firefox, Internet Explorer, and Microsoft Edge.

Telephone Pretest

SSRS conducted a live pretest of the computer assisted telephone interviewing (CATI) version of the survey to assess length and ensure that proper wording, questionnaire sequence, and study objectives were being met. The pretest also provided an opportunity to: (1) get feedback from interviewers and supervisors regarding the clarity of the instrument (including issues raised by participants); and (2) monitor interviewers and make modifications to interviewers' training procedures, as necessary. The pretest was conducted on October 7-10, 2024, with CLS sample. A total of four interviews were conducted with adults in Jewish households from CLS. Overall, the participants were engaged and able to respond to questions. Interview length ranged from 61 to 77 minutes, with an average length of interview 66 minutes. Rosov Consulting also conducted five cognitive tests of the survey instrument live via Zoom. Two of the tests were conducted in late August 2024 with a Word version of the survey instrument, and three were conducted in October 2024 with the survey programmed for online use. Adjustments to survey length and wording were made following the CATI pretest and online cognitive tests.

Translation

Once the English version was finalized, the survey was translated by linguists at Cetra Language Solutions. The screener portion of the survey was available in English, Spanish, Russian, and Yiddish. The main questionnaire for Jewish households was available in English and Russian. To ensure accuracy of the Russian questionnaires, translations were reviewed by native Russian speakers at RC, and revised based on their recommendations. The survey program was additionally reviewed by telephone interviewers in each language before the survey was fielded. Table 3 summarizes the number of screener and main questionnaires completes by language.

Table 3: Screener and Main Questionnaire Completes, by Language

	Screener	Main	Total
English	9,821	4,757	14,578
Russian	35	19	54
Hebrew	12	0	12
Spanish	66	0	66
Total	9,934	4,776	14,710

Mailing Materials

All initial mailing material to be used in fielding the survey (see Fielding and Data Collection below) included a logo emphasizing that the survey was being conducted in the Greater Boston area (The Community Study of Greater Boston). To avoid biasing the survey toward Jewish respondents, the initial invitations to most sample did not mention Jewish population study or CJP sponsorship (see Appendix B for samples of the invitation materials). Half of the mailings to CLS and a small portion of mailings to the L2 and High Jewish Residual sample mentioned that this is a Jewish population study sponsored by CJP, along with incentive and a full paper questionnaire to some. SSRS provided final proofs of all mailing materials to RC and CJP and received approval before printing. All mail materials utilized color printing. In addition, an email was sent to the CLS wherever we had an email address.

The outreach materials consisted of:

- Initial invitation letters
- Reminder emails
- Reminder postcards
- Final invitation letters
- Email invitations
- 4-page paper screener to random subsamples
- 20-page full paper questionnaire

FIELDING AND DATA COLLECTION PROCEDURES

Contact Procedures

Main Sample

A multi-mode, multi-contact strategy was employed to elicit participation among sampled households. This strategy involved contacting ABS households primarily by mail. Where possible, ABS households also received follow-ups by email. Mailed materials provided sampled households with options to complete the survey online, by phone, and, in some cases, through a paper questionnaire. The sample was released in two waves. Approximately 30% of the invitations were sent in the first wave. Prior to the second wave mailing, modifications to the sample design were made to account for the sample's actual performance in the first wave.⁸ These changes were based on a re-optimization of the sample using the actual response and Jewish incidence rates obtained from wave 1 by design strata and regional strata. Additionally, the wave 2 sample was designed to increase respondents with one or more of the following characteristics (aged 18-24, identified as LGBTQ, Israeli, Orthodox Jewish, Russian, disabled, or a person of color). Mailing materials varied in the inclusion of non-contingent incentives (see section on incentives below).

(1) Mailing 1:

The initial contact to each wave varied by sample type. Sampled households were randomly assigned to receive either an invitation letter only; an invitation letter with a full paper questionnaire (screener and main questionnaire); or an invitation letter with a screening paper questionnaire, or an invitation letter, with or without incentive.

- a. Invitation letter: The Wave 1 group that received the invitation letter without paper questionnaire included a random half of the CLS, 75% of the L2, 75% of the High Jewish Residual, and random half of the Medium Jewish Residual sample. The Wave 2 group that received this invitation letter included all CLS and L2 sample, as well as a random eighty percent of the Medium Jewish Residual stratum. This initial invitation letter was sent on stationery that identified the survey as the Community Study of Greater Boston. Letters were sent as first-class mail.

The letter emphasized the importance of participation to the Greater Boston community. The letter included the survey URL and a secure access code unique to the household address. Additionally, a QR code for direct access into the survey via mobile device was included. A toll-free number for those who preferred to take the survey on the phone with a live interviewer was provided in the invitation. The letter also included information in Spanish, Russian, and Hebrew on how to participate in the survey. In some specific strata, the invitation identified the survey's sponsor as CJP and included a quote from CJP President and CEO, Marc Baker (see Table 4 below). All other strata identified the survey's sponsor generally as local organizations and included only the signature of SSRS president, Melissa Herrmann. Strata also varied in whether their invitation package included an incentive.

- b. Full paper questionnaire: The Wave 1 group that received the 20-page paper questionnaire included a random half of the CLS and a random quarter of the L2 sample. The Wave 2 group that received this full paper questionnaire included a random quarter of the High Jewish Residual stratum. The mailing included a letter informing respondents of other ways to complete the survey (online or by phone), and a stamped business return envelope. The letter specifically mentioned CJP sponsorship and included a quote from CJP President and CEO, Marc Baker, encouraging participation. The letter also included information in Spanish, Russian, and Hebrew on how to participate in the survey.

- c. Screener paper questionnaire: To address the possibility of relatively higher Jewish non-response in strata not receiving hardcopy questionnaires, a random quarter of the Waves 1 and 2 High Jewish Residual and a random one-fifth of the Wave 2 Medium Jewish Residual strata received a 4-page paper questionnaire consisting of only demographic questions and questions used to assess the Jewish household status. The data collected from these screener surveys was included in the screener dataset and used for population estimates.

(2) Mailing 2:

The second contact to each wave similarly varied by sample type and consisted of the same categories of mailings as in the initial contact. However, any household who were sent a screener or full paper questionnaire initially were instead sent a reminder letter without questionnaire as the second contact. Additionally, all reminder letters differed in text from the initial invitation letters.

- a. Reminder letter: The Wave 1 group that received the reminder letter without paper questionnaire included a random half of the CLS, a quarter of the L2 and one-eighth of the High Jewish Residual. The Wave 2 group that received this reminder letter included a random half of the L2⁹ and High Jewish Residual strata. In both waves, the reminder letter was sent to a random eighty percent of the Medium Jewish Residual stratum. This reminder letter was sent on stationery that identified the survey as the Community Study of Greater Boston. Letters were sent as first-class mail.

The letter reminded respondents of their recent invitation to participate in the Greater Boston community, and the goal “to help local organizations provide programs and services to community members throughout the Greater Boston area and plan for the future”. The letter included all of the sample options for accessing and completing the survey as in contact one (survey URL with secure access code, QR code, and toll-free number). The letter also included the same information in Spanish, Russian, and Hebrew.

⁹ The distribution of types of reminder packages to Merrimack Valley and Plymouth, MA in contact two differed from the rest of the L2 and High Jewish Residual sample. Among L2 Merrimack Valley sample, a random half was sent a full paper questionnaire, a quarter was sent a paper screener, and the remaining quarter was sent a reminder letter without paper questionnaire. Among High Jewish Residual Merrimack Valley and Plymouth sample, a random eighty percent was sent a reminder letter without paper questionnaire, and the remaining one-fifth was sent a paper screener. A paper screener was sent to all L2 Plymouth sample.

- b. Full paper questionnaire: The Wave 1 group that received the 20-page paper questionnaire included a random half of the CLS and three-quarters of the L2 sample. The Wave 2 group that received this full paper questionnaire included all CLS, a random half of the L2, and a quarter of the High Jewish Residual sample. The mailing included a letter reminding respondents of other ways to complete the survey (online or by phone, same as offered in contact one), and a stamped business return envelope. The letter specifically mentioned CJP sponsorship and included a quote from CJP President and CEO, Marc Baker, and included information in Spanish, Russian, and Hebrew on how to participate in the survey.
- c. Screener paper questionnaire: A random one-fifth of the Waves 1 and 2 Medium Jewish Residual strata, three-quarters of Wave 1 High Jewish Residual, and a quarter of 2 High Jewish Residual sample received a 4-page paper questionnaire consisting of only demographic questions and questions used to assess the Jewish household status. See the total count of addresses screened in as Jewish Households through the paper screener, and who completed the full survey, above under 'first contact'.

(3) Mailing 3:

The third mailing to all sample in both waves was a follow-up postcard. The content of the postcard was similar to the invitation letter, reinforcing the importance of the household's participation in the survey. It included the survey URL and a secure access code unique to the household, as well as a toll-free number and QR code. The postcard also included information in Spanish, Russian, Hebrew, and Yiddish on how to participate in the survey.

(4) SMS Reminder

SMS (text messaging) outreach was implemented in collaboration with Survey160¹⁰, a company specializing in text-messaging for research, to increase completion rates among respondents. On February 24th, a subset of 1,000 pieces of CLS were randomly assigned to receive one of two reminders. A random half (Experimental group A) received a short introduction that specified this is a Jewish Community Study: "Hi, I am (interviewer name) with SSRS, contacting you for CJP. Can you answer some questions for the Jewish Community Study of Greater Boston?" along with answer options. Experimental group B received the same introduction, but excluding the word "Jewish". Respondents who texted back, "Yes", or "1" were sent one follow-up message including a passcode-embedded link to the online survey. Interviewers were additionally trained to answer FAQ's, such as who is conducting this study and why we are contacting them. Experimental results showed that slightly more cases in Experimental

¹⁰ Survey 160

Group B (excluding “Jewish”) accessed the survey and finished the screener.¹¹ Based on these results, an additional 4,509 pieces of CLS were sent the same text invitation as Experimental group B starting on February 26th: “Hi, I am (interviewer name) with SSRS, contacting you for CJP. Can you answer some questions for the Community Study of Greater Boston?”

A total of 6,991 pieces of L2 sample also received text invitations starting on February 24th. This sample received the following invitation: “Hi, I am (interviewer name) with SSRS. Can you answer some questions for the Community Study of Greater Boston?”

Across both sample types, a total of 234 respondents accessed the survey through the SMS link. Of those, 120 finished the screener, including 102 screened in as a Jewish household and 18 screened out as a non-Jewish household. A total of 75 completed the full survey.

(5) Mailing 4:

Households identified as Jewish households through the screener paper questionnaire (mailings 1C and 2C) received an additional follow-up mailing including an $18 gift card as non-contingent incentive and inviting them to complete the Community Study of Greater Boston. In total, 49 addresses screened in as Jewish Households from the screener paper questionnaire. Of these, seven ultimately completed the full survey.

Table 4 summarizes these contacts by design strata and Table 5 provides the dates of all postal mailings and emails that were part of the contact procedures.

Email-Only Supplemental Stratum

Up to two email invitations were sent to each case sampled in the email-only stratum. The initial invitation identified the study as the Community Study of Greater Boston and named CJP as the survey’s sponsor. The invitation described the study’s goal as enabling CJP and nonprofit organizations across the region to better understand the everyday challenges of the diverse communities they support and was signed by CJP President and CEO, Rabbi Marc Baker. A unique passcode-embedded link was included to access the survey, and respondents were able to email the project team with any questions about the study. Respondents also were able to access the survey in Spanish, Russian, or Hebrew. A reminder email was sent to nonresponders, generally containing the same survey description, but noting that this is the final opportunity to make respondents’ voices heard. The email-only stratum’s invitation and reminder can be found in Appendix B.

¹¹ A total of 37 cases in Experimental Group B (excluding “Jewish”) accessed the survey by clicking the texted link. Of these, 20 finished the screener, including 19 who screened in as a Jewish household before suspending from the survey and one who screened out as a non-Jewish household. A total of 33 cases in Experimental Group A (including “Jewish”) accessed the survey. Of these, 16 finished the screener, including 15 screened in as a Jewish household before suspending from the survey and one who screened out as a non-Jewish household.

Telephone Interviewing

A toll-free number was supplied to respondents if they wanted to call in to ask questions about the web survey or to complete the survey over the phone with a trained interviewer. When respondents called the toll-free number, they reached an answering message directing them to dial a number for each available language (English, Russian, Hebrew, Spanish). If a respondent called during call center business hours and selected English or Spanish, they were connected with a live SSRS telephone interviewer in that language to complete the survey or answer any questions about the survey. If a respondent called outside of call center business hours or selected another language, they were directed to leave a voicemail, and a telephone interviewer returned their call in the selected language in the next business day.

Supervisors and interviewers were briefed by the project team prior to the initial mailing. This briefing covered the study objectives, screening process, as well as reviewed individual questions and pronunciations as needed. Supervisors and interviewers were provided with examples of the mailing materials provided to respondents.

Incentives:

Non-Contingent Incentives

Letters sent to respondents in the CLS, L2, and High Jewish Residual samples included $1 cash as a non-contingent incentive for respondents. The incentive was included for half of this sample in an initial invitation package and included in the first reminder to the other half. Previous research indicates that small non-contingent incentives, meaning incentives that do not depend on whether the respondent completes the study or not, tend to improve response rates¹².

In cases where households received the paper screener-only survey and returned a screener indicating a Jewish household, a second invitation letter was sent to complete the full survey. This invitation included an $18 Visa gift card.

DATA COLLECTION REPORTS

A total of 14,710 respondents completed the screener questionnaire. Of these, 5,826 screened as Jewish households, and 4,776 of the screened Jewish households completed the main questionnaires. Table 6 below details the number of completes from each of the design and geographic sampling strata.

WEIGHTING

The first step in developing weights was to develop household population estimates for the Coverage Area by strata (CLS, L2 Flagged Jewish, High Jewish Residual, Medium Jewish Residual, Low Jewish Residual) by the county-based region (Essex, Middlesex/Worcester, Norfolk, Plymouth/Bristol, Suffolk)¹³. To do so, we extracted the universe counts of household addresses in the CDF (USPS) file and combined it with the CLS, and the proportion of unique addresses estimated to be in the Jewish model stratum to arrive at the number of households per stratum, as shown below¹⁴¹⁵:

Table 8: Households in the Coverage Area, County by Stratum

	CLS	L2 Flagged Jewish	High Jewish Residual	Medium Jewish Residual	Low Jewish Residual	Total

Dividing the number of households above by the amount of sample mailed out in each cell provides the stratification base weight (ABS_SAMPWT) for the address-based sampling (ABS) cases. Before moving forward, this weight was re-scaled to match the full household unit population by strata and county-based region, including the Low Jewish Residual strata, which wasn't included in sample design. Adjustment cells were defined by valid combinations of design strata and collapsed saturation levels (high versus mid/low). For each cell, a scaling factor was calculated as the ratio of the estimated frame count

¹³ County-based regions were defined by zip code and mapped to counties using the zip-to-county crosswalk found here: <https://mcdc.missouri.edu/applications/geocorr2022.html>

¹⁵ Addresses were not sampled directly from the Low Jewish Stratum for efficiency, but the population counts were used to adjust the base weights to correct for the fact that this stratum were not included in sampling.

to the sum of sample weights. Each ABS_SAMPWT was then multiplied by this factor to produce the final scaled weight.

A base weight adjustment was then applied to address potential systemic nonresponse to the survey. This cell-based nonresponse adjustment was calculated separately within each design strata using a Conditional Inference Tree (CART). This analysis uses screener completion status as the dependent variable and a set of variables available for the full sample (or appended to the sample) as independent variables. The following independent variables were included in the CART model: design stratum (including list source), CJP region, address-level data (e.g., delivery type), commercial appended demographic data (e.g., phone append status), Census block-level demographics (e.g., income level, population density, percentage of non-white households, percentage of households who moved their current residence within the last year, percentage of households where main language is not Indo-European, Asian, or Pacific Island languages, Census low response score quintiles). Additionally, the models included operational information likely to affect non-response including presence of email on the list sample and whether an address received a hard-copy mailing. The Trees were used to create nonresponse-adjustment cells sharing similar response propensities. The weighting adjustment was calculated as the sum of the base weights within each CART cell divided by the sum of the base weights for the respondents within the cell. The adjustment for screener non-respondents is 0. The product of this non-response adjustment and the stratification base weight is the household-level design weight (HH_ADJWT).

This design weight was then adjusted to account for the Low Jewish Residual strata that wasn't included in the sample design. Regional estimates of Jewish household incidence and saturation distributions for high and medium/low saturation were updated to properly include the Low Jewish Residual strata. The weight was then raked to these updated distributions and scaled to the total number of households, including those in the Low Jewish Residual strata, by list type. This process preserved the intended saturation and incidence proportions within each county-based region. This adjusted household design weight was assigned to each person in the household to attain an adult-level design weight (ADULT_BW) to be used in post-stratification. The adult-level screener file was raked, separately for each county-based region, to adult population characteristics derived from ACS 2019–2023 5-year data. Post-stratification parameters included the following (within county-based region):

- Age (18-24, 25-34, 35-44, 45-64, 65+)
- Educational attainment (LT bachelor's degree, bachelor's degree, graduate/professional degree)
- Age (18-29, 30-49, 50-64, 65+) by educational attainment (LT bachelor's degree, bachelor's degree, graduate/professional degree)
- Gender (male, female)
- Race/ethnicity (White, non-Hispanic, Black non-Hispanic, Hispanic, Asian non-Hispanic, Other non-Hispanic)
- Number of adults in the household (capped at 3 or more)
- Presence of children in the household

An additional calibration variable representing saturation level (high vs. medium/low) was incorporated into the raking procedure for each county-based region. The marginal targets for this variable were derived from the ADULT_BW weights within each county-based region.

The next step was to combine each county-based region's weights into an overall all-adult weight (ADULT_CJPWT) and to rescale them to the total adult population numbers by county-based region based on ACS 2019–2023 5-year population estimates.

These raked person-level weights were then divided by the number of adults within each household to return them to household-level weights. These household-level weights (HH_CJPWT) were calibrated by county-based region to match ACS 2019–2023 5-year housing unit counts.

These full adult-level (ADULT_CJPWT) and household-level weights (HH_CJPWT) were then applied to the screener file to obtain the number of households that were Jewish households, the number of adults in Jewish households, and the number of Jewish adults.

The next step was to compute a non-response adjustment (to the extended Jewish interview) to account for the differential completion propensity for households in which the respondent was not Jewish. This adjustment was applied within cells created by crossing the Jewish respondent status with the presence of children in the household.

These adjusted weights were then recalibrated for the set of adults in Jewish households with a fully completed questionnaire. Calibration parameters were computed using the full adult-level screener file weighted by the ADULT_CJPWT weight. With this weight applied, frequencies of the weighting parameters were computed for adults in Jewish households only, separately for Jewish and non-Jewish adults. The same demographics were used in the calibration of the full adult weight, except the cross of age by education, which was too detailed for adequate convergence. In addition, this calibration included the number of children in the household capped at 4, CJP region distribution, and interfaith household distribution. After calibration, these weights were rescaled to match the number of adults in Jewish households, Jewish adults, and interfaith households within each CJP region by stratum obtained from the weighted screener file. The resulting weight (ADULT_JHHWT) is representative for all adults in Jewish households.

The Jewish adults in Jewish household weight (J_ADULT_JHHWT) is the equal to ADULT_JHHWT for all Jewish adults. This weight was balanced to match the number of Jewish adults in Jewish households obtained from the all-adults in Jewish households file.

For Jewish households with a completed questionnaire, a Jewish household level weight (JHH_JHHWT) was also created based on the sum of ADULT_JHHWT divided by the number of adults in the household and rescaled to match the total numbers of Jewish households obtained from the weighted screener file.

The data files also include a respondent-level weight for Jewish household respondents in order to correct for any bias that may be associated with the self-selection within the household regarding who responded to the survey. This weight adjusts the respondents to be representative of adults in Jewish households. The email-only respondents were also included in the sample with non-zero respondent-level weights. The design weight for the email-only sample was set to 1 since there is an unknown selection probability for this portion of the sample. This calibration used separate benchmarks for Jewish adults and non-Jewish adults within Jewish households. Benchmarks were extracted for Jewish adults by running frequencies weighted by J_ADULT_JHHWT and for non-Jewish adults by running frequencies weighted by ADULT_JHHWT, where JEWISH_ADULT_1_1_new did not equal 1. This weight (RESP_JHHWT_ut) can therefore be used for analysis of respondent-level survey data for all adults in Jewish households as well as subset to Jewish adults in Jewish households. This weight, which was also trimmed at 2% and 5% (RESP_JHHWT_trim2/ RESP_JHHWT_trim5), summed to the sample size. A second version of the respondent weight (RESP_JHHWT_v2_ut) incorporated an additional calibration for age by LGBTQ status, applied separately for Jewish and non-Jewish adults. The benchmarks for this calibration were derived using the same approach as in the original respondent weight. This weight was trimmed at 2% and 5% (RESP_JHHWT_v2_trim2/ RESP_JHHWT_v2_trim5).¹⁶

The last weight was computed specifically for analysis of child-level data collected as part of the Jewish household child roster. This weight (CHILD_JHHWT) sums to the estimated number of children in Jewish households in the Coverage Area. CHILD_JHHWT equals the Jewish household weight (JHH_JHHWT) for each child in the household.

Margin of Sampling Error

The survey's margin of error is the largest 95% confidence interval for any estimated proportion based on the total sample — the one around 50%. For example, the margin of error for the entire sample when using the final adult-level weight representative of all adults in Jewish households (RESP_JHHWT) is ± 2.6 percentage points. This means that in 95 out of every 100 samples drawn using the same methodology, estimated proportions based on the entire sample will be no more than 2.6 percentage points away from their true values in the population. Margins of error for subgroups will be larger. Among a random half of the respondents in Jewish households who completed the full survey (N=2,388), the MOE is ± 3.7 percentage points

It is important to remember that the sampling fluctuations captured in the margin of error are only one possible source of error in a survey estimate. Other sources, such as respondent selection bias, questionnaire wording, and reporting inaccuracy, may contribute additional errors of greater or lesser magnitude.

¹⁶ Users of the public use data file should note that the data file respondent weight is called RESP_JHHWT and is equivalent to RESP_JHHWT_v2_trim2 in this documentation.

RESPONSE RATES

Final sample dispositions are based on the information available for each case. Respondents who completed the survey (C - Complete) and those who confirmed they are in Jewish households but did not complete (B - Jewish Break-Off) are considered eligible. Respondents who indicated they are not in Jewish households were considered ineligible (I). Addresses where the mailing was returned as non-deliverable are considered non-working (NW). All others are considered unknown households (U) as far as eligibility. An eligibility coefficient (E1) was calculated as the percent eligible divided by the sum of eligible and ineligible cases: $e = (C+B)/(C+B+I)$. This same formula was used to allocate the U cases into eligible and in eligible.

Using AAPOR's RR3 formula ($RR3 = C/(C+B+E1*U)$), the overall response rate for the 2025 Greater Boston Jewish Community Study main sample was calculated to be 8%. Below are dispositions and response rates for each sampling stratum.

HUMAN SUBJECTS RESEARCH PROTECTION AND OVERSIGHT

The study was conducted with oversight by the University of Southern Maine's (USM) Institutional Review Board (IRB), managed by the USM's Office of Research Integrity and Outreach. Key researchers working on the project received human subjects research training prior to fielding the study, and all study protocols, questionnaires, and outreach materials (in all languages) were reviewed and approved by the USM IRB. The University of Southern Maine received IRB accreditation from the Association for the Accreditation of Human Research Protection Program (AAHRPP) in September 2022. AAHRPP is an international, independent nonprofit organization that reviews and accredits an institution's human research protections program (HRPP).

Dear Greater Boston Resident,

Someone in your household recently completed a short survey for the Community Study of Greater Boston. Please accept our sincere thanks. This study is funded by Combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP), which supports hundreds of nonprofit organizations serving the people of Greater Boston. The goal of this study is to enable CJP and nonprofit organizations across the region to better understand the everyday challenges of the diverse communities they support.

In the initial survey, we asked a few short questions of everyone living in the area, to help us better understand the composition of Greater Boston's Jewish community within the area's population. You mentioned that someone in your household identifies as Jewish. We'd like to invite your household to participate in one more survey, which focuses on Greater Boston's Jewish community. We have included a small thank you for participating in the Community Study of Greater Boston.

Your participation is crucial to the study's goal. Please have an adult (age 18 or older) in your household visit the website below and enter the access code, or simply scan the QR code with your smart phone or tablet.

APPENDIX D: FAQs

The Community Study of Greater Boston (INSERT LOGO) FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What kind of information does this study collect?

This study collects information about you and your household such as age, race, ethnicity, and religion so that we can ensure we are representing the many voices of Greater Boston.

Your answers are completely confidential and individual contact information (name, address, phone number, or email address) will NOT be shared by the survey company with the survey sponsor or any other organizations. All your answers will be combined anonymously with the answers of other people in Greater Boston who participate.

What is the purpose of this study?

The Community Study of Greater Boston is a valuable tool for understanding Greater Boston's communities and their needs. The findings will be used by local nonprofit organizations in Greater Boston to provide programs and services to people of all backgrounds, and address the changing needs of people in Greater Boston.

We are not asking for money or selling anything. This survey is for research purposes only.

Why is my participation so important?

Your household was randomly selected to be part of a representative sample of all households in the area. Your address cannot be substituted for another, and we cannot achieve our goals without your help. Your answers will help provide reliable information on education, diversity, and other important characteristics of your community, as well as information about your views and experiences. The data will help service providers, policy makers, and community leaders understand the views and needs of people like you in Greater Boston.

Who is conducting this study?

This study is funded by CJP (www.cjp.org), which supports hundreds of nonprofit organizations serving the people of Greater Boston. CJP is Massachusetts' largest nonprofit organization, focused on investing in the care and well-being of our community and the stability and growth of our local organizations and institutions. CJP helps meet the ongoing and emergent needs of people of all backgrounds and supports and strengthens Jewish communities in Massachusetts and around the world.

The study is being conducted by SSRS (www.ssrs.com), a major national social science research firm. This team was assembled to make certain that the information collected meets the highest standards and provides the data needed for effective community planning.

Will the results be available?

Yes. The data will be made publicly accessible and survey results will be published in the fall of 2025 on CJP's website and through an interactive web tool. As a reminder, no results will be published in which individuals can be identified.

Who is participating in this study?

This study is collecting information from thousands of households in Greater Boston. Adults of all backgrounds and of all religions (including people with no religion) are participating. We hope to reach different segments of the community to get an accurate picture of the population.

I received a letter about the survey, but it was not addressed to me. Can I take the survey?

Yes. If you currently live at the address shown on the letter and you are 18 or older, you may complete the survey.

How did you get my address?

Your address was randomly selected from all residential addresses in the Greater Boston area. All addresses had a chance of being selected to ensure the survey represents all the people who live here. Addresses are available through publicly accessible data.

What if I do not want to answer a particular question?

Then it is fine to simply leave it blank. There are just a few questions at the start of the survey that need to be answered to confirm that you qualify for the study. Please be assured your answers will be kept confidential. Individual contact information (name, address, phone number, or email address) will NOT be associated with your answers.

How long will it take? Can I start the survey now and finish another time?

On average, the survey takes about 20 minutes, depending on the characteristics of your household. You may start the survey and finish it another time; the program will automatically save your work. You can even start on, say, a desktop computer and finish it on a tablet or smart phone. When you sign back on, you will need the code from the letter that invited you to participate. You will be taken right to the point where you left off.
